Profile

Hey i'm Dan and as long as I can remember I have drawn, painted and crafted. I studied Digital Arts at LCC in London (University of the Arts) and then have furthered my own design paths through founding an online music magazine, self learning and working at large companies in the gaming industry.

I started working on my career in 2010 at a company called Wintechnologies, part of the Betway Group. I started in a Junior role and have progressed on to a mid-weight. In 2017 I was headhunted for a new start-up design agency called Mojito Media, here I was able to utilise many of my design skills using C4D, After Effects and also dipping into aspects of UX/UI design.

In 2019 I decided to pack my bags and travel the world for fear of missing out! I am now working for various clients on both freelance and contract bases. My return date to London is the 14th of March 2019.

Work Experience

2017 - 2018

Mojito Media
UI Designer

I was involved in many aspects of design at Mojito Media including website design, branding, UX and UI layouts. I was also asked to brainstorm new ideas and concepts for their brand overhaul where I used 3D editing software such as Blender and Cinema 4D.

2010 - 2017

The Betway Group
Mid-Weight Designer

Betway was a great way to start my design career, based within a large design team regularly having standup / interactive critiquing sessions which not only bolstered my confidence but also helped learn many new design skills, including motion design and print work. I also worked as the main designer for the Hippodrome Casino in London, creating their land based advertising.

Antony Koporo
Recruiter (betway)

In a marketplace full of Designers, Daniel did what many couldn't... stand out! His persistence and personality made him a great acquisition. He continually challenged himself to improve and raised the bar for his team!

Jason Wintermeyer
Senior Designer (betway)

Daniel is highly creative and talented all-round graphic designer. He is very knowledgeable in all areas of online gaming. If the opportunity arises I would jump at the opportunity to work alongside him again.
